Offering Cloud and Other Services to Digitize Form-Related Work

OPRO provides cloud computing and other services for data optimization solutions that digitize work related to forms such as invoices, financial institution counter services and administrative agency applications. Additionally, it offers sales management solutions that support back-office operations for companies involved in subscription-based businesses.

The company's net sales are categorized into cloud, product, product maintenance and other sales. Cloud net sales comprise sales of data optimization solutions and sales management solutions. Product net sales are on-premise product sales that were sold prior to the provision of cloud services, and product maintenance net sales are related to on-premise products. Cloud sales accounted for 94.3% of fiscal year ended November 2023 net sales, while product sales accounted for 0.5%, product maintenance sales 4.0% and other sales 1.1%. Breaking down cloud net sales by solution, data optimization accounted for 74.7% and sales management for 25.3%.

In conjunction with various third-party SaaS, the company provides data optimization and sales management solutions as cloud services. Around 90% of OPRO's net sales are provided in conjunction with cloud services offered by Salesforce, which boasts more than 150,000 customers worldwide, and its Japanese subsidiary, Salesforce Japan.

Salesforce offers services that not only manage and share customer information, analyze and visualize sales activities and automate sales processes, but also link to external services such as those offered by OPRO. OPRO's strength lies in its close integration with Salesforce's cloud-based CRM services.
